BASEBALL

The W.H.S. baseball team turned in a commendable performance this spring, finishing with fourteen wins and five losses. Weymouth beat out second place Waltham to take the Suburban League Championship but was defeated by Stoneham, 5 to 3, in the State tournament. Coached by Mr. Player, the 1968 team had a winning streak of ten games and played nine straight games without an error.

The Maroon's pitching staff consisted of two seniors: Dan Dillon, who had two wins, and Ken Wilson, who accounted for one win when not playing the outfield. Three juniors turned in good performances: Mark McGlynn was six and one for the season, Larry Stohl, five and zero, and Bob McDonald worked mainly in relief.

Sophomore Tom McMahon was Weymouth's leading hitter. Ed Wisneski, with a nine game hitting streak, Vic Puntiri, and Frank Baldassini were all important to Weymouth's splendid season.

BOYS' TENNIS

Early in March, fourteen W.H.S. students heralded the arrival of spring by dusting off their tennis rackets and heading for the courts. First in line was Captain Richard Bulman, recipient of the 1968 trophy for the outstanding player.

The team did their share of net-jumping this year, with a record of ten wins and seven losses. Later in the season, the Weymouth team entered the state tournament, where they compiled a record of one win and one loss.

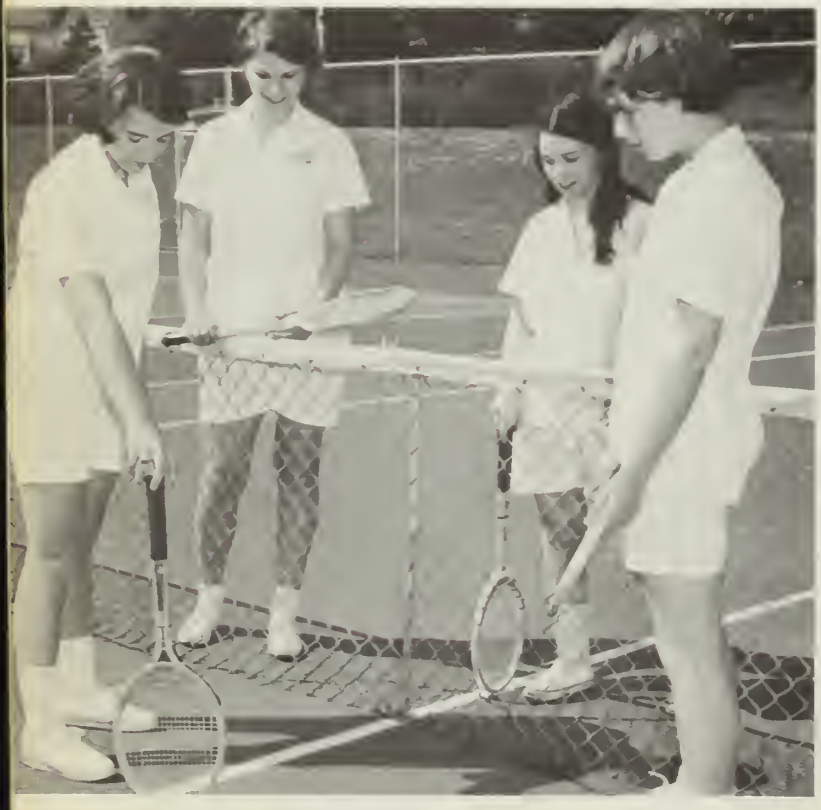
GIRLS' TENNIS



Talking over upcoming tennis matches are Carolyn Breach, Martha Schleif, Terry Swanson, and Karen Emilson.

Casting off the sluggishness that set in with winter, the W.H.S. Girls' Tennis Team invaded the courts of suburbia winning two of their seven matches and tying one. Some of their hard hitting opponents included Notre Dame Academy, Scituate, Brookline, Needham, and Rockland. Although the team this year lost seniors Lee Fay, Marie Leahy, and Joyce Sturgis, next year looks most hopeful as the team has six juniors and two sophomores returning.

GOLF

The Weymouth High School Golf Team, whose Suburban League opponents represent all of eastern Massachusetts, uses the South Shore Country Club for all its home games. Although spurred on by such able men as Mr. Fisher as coach, and Mr. Jannino as assistant coach, the young team did not enjoy many victories. Since the team was comprised of one junior, most valuable player Joe Callahan, and seven sophomores, the chances for a very successful season next year are excellent.

AWARDS

Weymouth High's Annual Awards Assembly was held on Thursday, June 6, at Legion Field. Sophomores, as well as juniors and seniors were in attendance. Guest speakers included Commander Timms of the United States Navy, and Mr. Norman Wright, and Mr. Herbert Guinette of the Weymouth Athletic Council. Awards were given for outstanding achievements in debate, science, music, art, and athletics. Awards were presented by Mr. Martin, Mr. Ghiorse, Mr. Fisher, Mr. Collins, and Miss Johnson.

SPRING CONCERT

Under the direction of Mr. Burke, Orchestra; Mr. Burns, Chorus; and Mr. Warren, Band; the annual Spring Concert was held on May 10. Over 300 musicians, including sophomores, participated. In addition to selections from Man of La Mancha and West Side Story, the evening was highlighted by the presentation of the National Choral Award for outstanding senior contribution to chorus, and of the John Philip Sousa Award for the outstanding senior band member. Winners were Patricia Sullivan and Edward Doyle.

The performance of the Chorus was a highlight of the Spring Concert.

MARDI GRAS

The Grecian exhibit had the added style of Larry Smith.

A unique concept in education was presented at Weymouth High this year in the form of a Mardi Gras. There were booths representing many foreign countries with language and social studies experts to sell samples of food native to each country. All money first had to be converted into the currency of the country where a purchase was to be made. Music and dancing, representative of some of the countries were provided for entertainment.

GRADUATION DANCE

Thursday evening, June 6, was an important date for the graduating class of 1968. The Graduation Dance was held in the school cafeteria, transformed into a ballroom by the magic of Miss Kovac and Mr. Daly. Music was provided by Kahuna and the Mooners, a group which included five of their classmates. The music, the food (potato chips, pretzels, cookies, and coke), and the atmosphere contributed to make the evening perfect; one that all will remember for many years to come.

"What's it called?"

Mr. Daly talks over the situation with Mr. McCarthy.

Gail Gomer and Mark Olson concentrate while Diane Cannon directs traffic.

SENIOR PROM

Dancing to the music of Ruby Newman and his orchestra, the Seniors brought to a climax their years at Weymouth High with the Senior Prom, held at the Surf Ballroom in Nantasket. Under the guidance of Miss Curran and Mr. McCarthy, the crowning of the Prom Queen took place. Queen Frances Molisse and her king, Malcolm Rennie, took their places, and with their classmates enjoyed dinner and the entertaining performances of the Pilgrims and the Techniques.

Linda Sass and Richard Jablonski crown Mal Rennie and Frances Molisse King and Queen of the Prom.

Richard Jablonski, Linda Sass, Patricia Cobbett, and Laurence Carver led their classmates.

Music was provided by the Ruby Newman Band.

The success of the evening was largely due to the efforts of the Prom Committee.

SENIOR SUPERLATIVES

With the Senior Superlatives, we pay tribute to those seniors who, in one way or another and in one direction or another, have served as inspirations to their classmates and to their teachers.

Class Wits: Pat Lang, Kevin Lancaster.

Most Ethereal: Janice Hanson, Robert Gohl.

GRADUATION

The Grand March of the graduates to Legion Field started the impressive ceremony. Assembled for the last time, the class of 1968 sang "Star Spangled Banner," "Somewhere", and "Cross of Gray." The shifting of the tassels from right to left climaxed the ceremony. Three high honor essayists addressed their class. Duncan Allan spoke on "The Status of Honesty," Kevin Beggs on "The Status of Discipline" and Diane Maynard on "The Status of Integrity"; pointing out the long road toward the different goals in life.

High Honor Essayist Diane Maynard spoke on "The Status of Integrity."

The Class of 1968 assembled for the last time.

Junior members of the band arrived early.

Rev. Arthur M. Nolan delivered the Invocation.

"The Status of Honesty" was Duncan Allen's High Honor Essay.

The end of the beginning, the class marshals begin the march to Legion Field.

Proud parents and relatives crowded the bleachers to capacity.

Class Marshalls: Paula Pilato, Richard Estano.

Kevin Beggs chose "The Status of Discipline" as the topic of his High Honor Essay.

Once again, Weymouth's basketball team thrilled the Boston Garden crowd with their competitive zeal in the Tech Tourney.

Patricia Papps was added to the faculty.

Bruce Emerson was a faculty newcomer.

Commander Timms presented John Hogan a special award.

Even unto the last moment - teamwork.

WE

THE DRAMA OF EDUCATION

Education is the title of our play. Throughout our high school years, the most formative period of our life, we endeavour to strengthen and broaden our concepts and ideals. By constant perseverence we prepare ourselves for the future. Education enables us to develop fully our personality and to obtain a better understanding of ourselves.

Weymouth High School is the setting. Large and impressive in architectural design, our school offers to its students well-equipped classrooms, study halls, and laboratories in which to further the process of learning. Furthermore, Weymouth High School presents an opportunity for each student to participate in varied extra-curricular activities, which serve as incentives for his creative talents.

The students are the actors. Each student's response when confronted with a critical decision holds dramatic significance to him and his future. His life at Weymouth High School will determine his role as a responsible citizen of the community, his country, and the world. The faculty, our directors, strive always to instill in us a sense of purpose and responsibility. Under their guidance we better appreciate the value of knowledge.

The Drama of Education occurs in the classroom, on the athletic field, and in the community. Only with the inspiration fostered by this process, can learning grow and flourish. Three years ago we entered Weymouth High School as untested adolescents. Now as capable young adults, we emerge prepared for the future due to our exposure to the Drama of Education.

WEYMOUTH, MASSACHUSETTS

"Success is often the result of paying meticulous attention to many of the small details of life." Mr. Gutterson manifested this formula for success during the past twenty-three years as director of the Weymouth High School Guidance Department. This quotation reflects his enthusiasm for and his unswerving dedication to all students of Weymouth High School. Mr. Gutterson had the talent to see each student as an individual with unique characteristics, not just as a folder of statistics.

His efforts in helping students choose their careers and in encouraging them to further their education met with continual success. For this reason, we the members of the 1966 Campus Staff, the producers of the presentation, "The Drama of Education," cast Mr. Gutterson in the starring role.

ADMINISTRATION, FACULTY & GUIDANCE

FACULTY INTRODUCTION

The faculty plays a major role in the Drama of Education. In the words of Henry Adams, "A teacher affects eternity. He can never tell when his influence stops."

Each instructor acts as a prompter behind the scenes. His coaching enables the student to perform admirably under the pressures of education. The teacher emphasizes to the student the importance of applying his knowledge in forming his own conclusions. He attempts to instill in each pupil a sense of self-confidence vital in this world of competition.

The faculty also assumes the role of director. In this capacity he seriously considers the fine points and minute details of molding individual character traits. In addition, the teacher volunteers constructive criticism along with appropriate encouragement.

By remaining open-minded and intellectually curious, we, the students, reward the unselfish efforts of the faculty. Definitely these personnel mold the future by offering inspiration and direction fundamental to self-education and the day when every student will make his debut on the stage of adult life.

RETIREMENT

A man who feels that it is a great honor to be a teacher and have an influence on the youth of America is Mr. Ray Parker. Thus, for the past twenty-seven years Mr. Parker has helped Weymouth boys gain a technical education. Upon his graduation from Wentworth Institute and Boston University, he came to Weymouth High School and taught mechanical and architectural drawing. In 1942 he became assistant director, and eight years later he assumed the role of director of the Weymouth Vocational Technical High School. Since he came to the technical school forty-three years ago, the school's enrollment has doubled and the types of courses the school offers has increased from three to nine. The students of Weymouth High salute Mr. Parker upon his retirement.

As an administrator, Mr. Mapes has always endeavored to raise the standards of the faculty and the school facilities. After his graduation from Alfred University in 1920, he became a principal in the Richburg, New York school system. He received his Masters from Cornell in 1923, and then served as principal in Terryville and Thomaston, Connecticut. After serving as a principal in the Bristol, Rhode Island, school system for two months, he became superintendent. In 1945, he came to Weymouth, and he has spent these past twenty years as Weymouth's Superintendent of Schools. The students of Weymouth High salute Mr. Mapes on his retirement.

The efficiency with which Weymouth High School operates can to a great degree be accredited to the efforts of our fine custodians. Under the direction of Mr. Cicchese and Mr. Loud, the custodians are responsible for maintaining the beauty of the school and its corridors. In addition, Mr. Tabor, the school gardener, keeps the courtyards and lawns attractive. Since education depends a great deal on a pleasant environment the work of these gentlemen cannot be overestimated.

The combined efforts of the congenial staff are also displayed by the attractive, well-kept school grounds. Robert Stewart, Sal Abruzzese, Charlie Butler, Steve Holt, Mr. Loud, Al Cicchese

SPORTS

Peter Platt in action at the Tech Tournament

A well-balanced sports program offers students at Weymouth a better chance to participate in and to enjoy the various types of indoor and outdoor sports activities.

Many of our games have been as suspenseful and as exciting as any well-written drama. For example, each time an opposing fullback charges toward the goal post only to be stopped short by the Weymouth defense or each time a player on the Weymouth team succeeds in scoring that all-important point, the drama rises, and a peak of excitement stirs the crowd to cheer and applaud.

As in the other acts of our play, we must rehearse under the guidance of directors and producers, portrayed by our coaches and gym teachers. These instructors have emphasized not only winning the game, but also understanding the importance of good sportsmanship and teamwork. They have tried to impress upon us the deep responsibility we have to put forth our best efforts, not only for the growth of our school but also for our own personal satisfaction. The dramatic results are there for all to see.

PEP CLUB

This year's Pep Club has motivated tremendous enthusiasm and contagious school spirit among the student body. Certainly, the new addition of the boys' pep section has contributed much to this organization's outstanding success. The boys have provided resourceful minds, original ideas, and most important, loud voices for the promotion of school spirit. Sponsored by Miss Arnold, the many activities in which the club's members have participated includes the making of victory signs and posters, the sponsoring of pep rallies, and the cheering at all sports functions. At home and away games as well as at the Boston Gardens during the Tech Tourney, the maroon and gold pep section of Weymouth High has been impressive. The voices and numerous efforts of the club's energetic members have inspired our teams to victory throughout the year.

"Let's go, Weymouth!" is the Pep Club's cry at all sports events.

The Pep Club's continual support proved to be a factor in the success of Weymouth High's athletic squads.

The cheerleaders urged the Maroons to victories at every football and basketball game. Clockwise from the top: Janice Vickery, Marcia Young, Judy O'Donnell, June Sullivan, Diane Buckley, Andrea Jacobsen

WHAT A YEAR! This year's squad, captained by Verna Von Iderstein, cheered our boys to overwhelming victories! THAT'S SPIRIT! Weymouth High had more school spirit than any other school in its league. We really owe a lot to our cheerleaders for their efforts: organizing pep rallies, promoting good will, putting up posters around the school, and attending each and every game. Their enthusiasm and vigor developed a feeling of pride in the school and in the performances of our students. We can be proud of these girls; they are an asset to the student body!

FOOTBALL

As the kick sailed over the cross bar, Weymouth fans quickly realized that Thanksgiving Day rival Brockton had again been defeated. George Andersen, Mr. Everything, had kicked the field goal from the twenty-six yard line to supply the winning points. George made possible his last minute heroics by calmly leading the team downfield with his passing and running. The victory over Brockton highlighted the highly successful football season, during which Weymouth won five, while losing three. Fine running by backs Bruce Eaton, Steve Tagen, Tom Ward, and Brian Greener combined with the excellent blocking of linemen Dana Laniewski, Roger Widdin, Jon Kuja, John Lynch, Dick Robson, Russ Sandblom, John Pica, Ray White, and Ken Blasser made Weymouth a scoring threat from any part of the field and a strong defensive team. Each game was exciting due to the excellent calibre of play and the fact that each outcome was not decided until the final whistle. In the single point loss to Arlington, the most exciting game up until Brockton, Andersen ran sixty yards on one play and threw a touchdown pass to Russ Sandblom to bring the score to fifteen-fourteen, Arlington. Coach Fisher and his players would not be satisfied with the possible tie, and their attempt for a two point conversion fell inches short. Andersen's running, passing, and kicking, Eaton's shifty running, and Pica's efforts in the line earned each All-Scholastic honors.

The ability, the determination, and the spirit of the Weymouth High basketball team enabled the Maroons to reach the finals in both the Eastern Massachusetts Schoolboy (Tech) Basketball Tournament and the State Tournament. In order to qualify for the Tech Tournament, Weymouth needed to win its last four games. Despite the tremendous odds, the Weymouth quintet ended its regular season with victories over Waltham, Rindge Technical, Brockton, and Quincy, four teams which earlier in the year had defeated them. Weymouth, under the direction of Coach Kearns, thus ended its season with fourteen wins against six losses. The late season surge was sparked by Co-Captains Steve "Little Giant" Gregg and defensive stalwart Chip Dewar. In addition, the rebounding and scoring ability of juniors Jim Dunlay and Peter Platt and the play-making of Dan Lyons made Weymouth the most balanced squad in the area. Coach Kearns surely instilled in his players the ability to perform under pressure. No game emphasizes this asset more than the first round victory in the Tech over Boston Technical. In a tight game Weymouth trailed 70-69 with approximately forty seconds left. Gregg wasted a good portion of the time with his uncanny ball handling and with ten seconds left hit in a jumper. However, Tech had one more opportunity to penetrate the Maroon defense. Weymouth, as always, stood up to the challenge and thwarted the Tech scoring effort.

The wrestling team's record of three wins and six losses does not completely tell the story of this past year. Considering that many on the team were underclassmen, some first year members, Weymouth's wrestlers met the challenges of the season quite well. This year the team was managed by Mr. Streadwick. This new coach performed the difficult task of transforming wrestling candidates into accomplished and experienced athletes. The team found two more qualified leaders in Captain Andy Jacobs and Co-Captain Dick Robson.

Mr. Streadwick has realized that his team must be strong, agile, and in perfect condition: wrestlers use almost every muscle in their bodies, and their success depends primarily on an individual ability to coordinate strength and mental skills instantaneously. Two Weymouth wrestlers, Andy Jacobs and Barry Greener, went on to place in the Massachusetts State Wrestling Championship this year.

Coached by Bill Dempsey, the Weymouth hockey team had an excellent year. The high spots of the season were consecutive 1-1 tie games with league-leading Catholic Memorial and second-place Archbishop Williams. After losing the first four games, the squad with only two seniors, showed continued improvement with each game played. Senior wing, Jim Reynolds, and senior defenseman, Jack DeLuca, played key defensive roles in limiting our opponents to an average of 2 goals per game. Goalie Francis McMorrow did an outstanding job in the nets.

Sophomore, James Heffernan was our high scorer and was selected to the league all star team. Forwards, Mike Losordo and Jerry Whitney, teamed up with Heffernan to give Weymouth a very explosive first line. With all but two boys coming back next year we can look forward to bettering our fifth place standing.

GIRLS' GYMNASTICS

The girls' gymnastic team this year, under the direction of Mrs. Marcia Porro, finished with an outstanding record of 5 wins and 0 losses. This was achieved by the hard work and natural poise and grace possessed by these girls. The trampoline, uneven parallel bars, and balance beam are all used for developing skill in acrobatics. Stunts such as cartwheels, flips, walkovers, and splits are often put to music. These methods of free exercise are important in the judging of each individual's performance. Mascot Nancy Ells, as well as all spectators, find watching our girls' gym team both inspiring and rewarding.

BOYS' GYMNASTICS

The boys' gymnastic team consisted of five sophomores and six juniors. With little experience in a sport so relatively new to our school, a winning season was not expected. The team finished with a record of 0 wins and 6 losses.

However, with the whole team coming back next year, a better record is hoped for. Mark Lewis, a junior, placed fourth in the Suburban League meet. Some of the other boys who performed well this year were Tim and Jim Doherty, Larry Fava and Paul LaFaure. The expert training of coaches Ron DiGravio and James Corrigan will certainly make our boys' gymnastic team a tough competition in the very near future.

Tie for Second Place with B.C. High
Met League

A sport becoming more popular every year at Weymouth High is Track. Starting in the fall with cross country and continuing throughout the year with winter and spring track, the sport provides athletes in other sports the opportunity to gain speed and agility.

The 1965 cross country team, captained by senior Steve Gregg, maintained a record of 6-1, with its only defeat coming from always-powerful New Bedford. Led by seniors Jim McCulloch and Alan Will, junior John McClellan, and sophomores Norman Weeks and John Sullivan, the cross country team upheld Weymouth High's fine reputation as a track power.

The winter track team continued to prove Weymouth's ability by securing a second-place tie in the powerful Met League. New school records were set by the relay team and by Bob Douglas in the 600-yard run. The relay team of Douglas, Kevin Quill, Ron Hunter, and Dave Seymour placed in the State Meet, along with Jan Perrin in the high jump and Douglas in the 600. The team also consists of Co-Captain Alan Will in the mile, Co-Captain Dave Seymour in the hurdles, and senior Mike Humberd in the shotput.

Jan Perrin — Agility and coordination propel a high jumper through the air.

SPRING TRACK

Undefeated in the 1965 season, including first places in the South Shore Relays and the Suburban League Meet, the spring track team brings together many veterans. Along with Captains Steve Gregg in the mile and broadjump and Alan Will in the mile, the team includes the members of the strong relay team of winter track, Bob Douglas, Dave Seymour, and Jan Perrin. The 1966 spring track team has the potential for another undefeated season.

Both the cross country and track teams will continue to grow. These sports offer any student with a strong will an opportunity to feel the challenge of competition, to push himself during this competition and understand the fine mechanism that his body represents. And when the time arrives for that extra thrust of power, the student will understand the importance of the careful supervision he received, the extra hours of practice he was encouraged to put into this sport.

The future looks bright for this growing sport at Weymouth High School. And Weymouth has the students capable of bringing honor to her in this challenging sport.

BASEBALL

Here's a hitting stance! George Andersen

Bob Richardson curves one from the mound.

Once again this season the Maroon baseball team proved to be a power house in the Suburban League. Coach George Player piloted the Weymouth nine through an exciting and memorable schedule. Mr. Player led the team through early season drills, which featured calisthenics, hitting, and fielding. Thus, from the opening game Weymouth fielded a fine team. Three-year letterman George Andersen and junior Bob Richardson headed the stingy Weymouth pitching staff. Both veterans were effective against the hard-hitting teams of Newton, Brockton and Rindge Tech. Catchers Rick Abraham and Barry Greener shared the signal calling position behind home plate. Weymouth's defense was backboned by a fine infield. Junior Ken Blasser directed the infield from first base. The combination of Glenn Douglas and Brian Marini made Weymouth's left side the toughest to penetrate with base hits. The quickness of fielders Fred Brine, Brian Greener, and Jack Abbott also helped to tighten the defense. Weymouth was capable of having a big inning at any time due to its explosive offense. The bats of Abraham, Andersen, and Blasser sparked the Maroon attack.

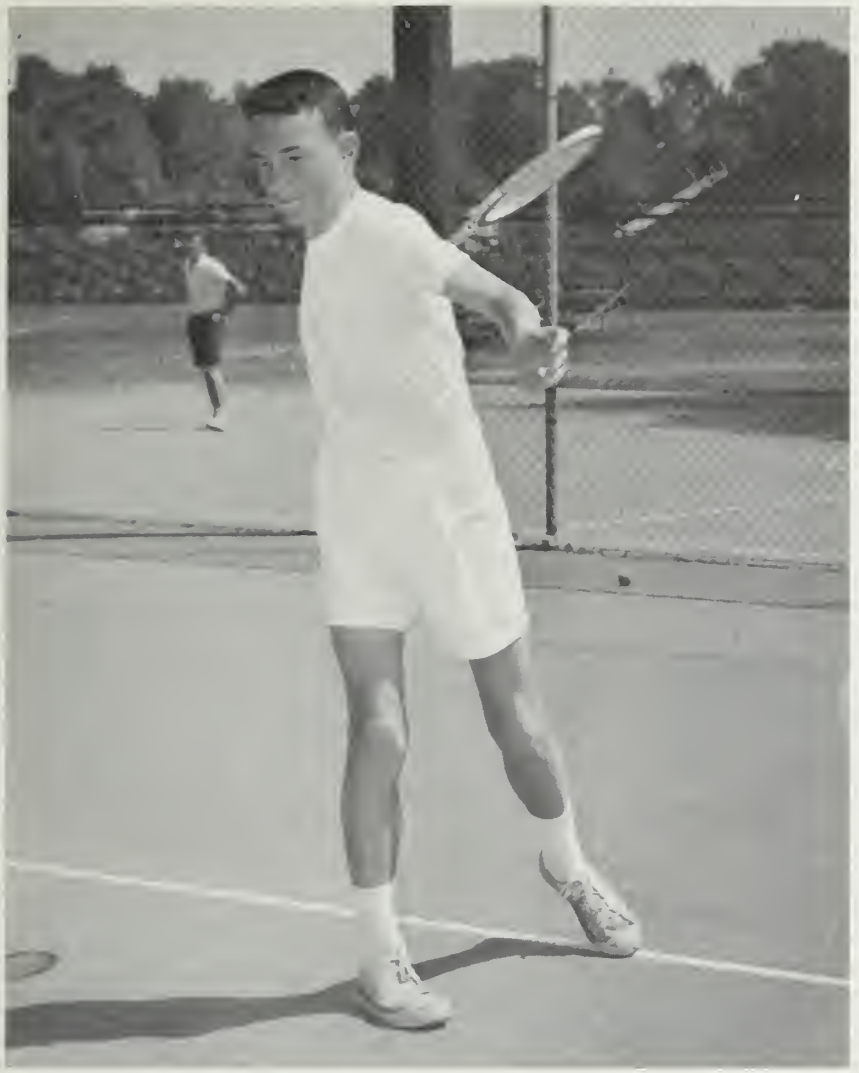
To become a skillful tennis player requires many hours of practice and hard work. Paula Ryder, Paula AuCoin, Verna Von Iderstein, Marcia Young, Kathy McCann, Miss Arnold, Donna Tilden, Diane Roberts, Joanne Simon, and Nora Tringale

Tennis, a fast-moving game, demands the player's full attention. Paula AuCoin and Verna Von Iderstein

GIRLS' TENNIS

In its third year of competition, the girls' tennis team is a new athletic squad gaining in importance. Coached by Miss Betty Arnold, the girls ended their last season with a 4-4 record, not indicative of their true potential. Playing against such formidable tennis powers as Hingham and Needham are seniors Verna Von Iderstein and Marcia Young and juniors Cathy McCann, Paula AuCoin, Paula Ryder, and Nora Tringale. With practice and training, these girls should certainly provide a winning season for the 1966 girls' tennis team.



Strength, accuracy, and coordination are assets which every tennis player must develop. John Haughn

BOYS' TENNIS

Weymouth's tennis team continued where it left off last year as the most formidable squad on the South Shore. The depth and experience of this year's team reflected the enthusiasm with which tennis has been accepted in Weymouth. Third year letterman Dick Whitney, seniors John Haughn and Bob Donovan, and undergraduates Don Ambach and Dick Bulman formed the nucleus of Weymouth's representative in the South Shore Tennis League. Due to the careful coaching of Mr. William Dempsey and the dedication of the boys in practice, Weymouth was able to match all of its opponents.

Mr. Dempsey, Rich Ryan, Charlie Verge, Glenn Walker, Brad Cleaves, Bob Donovan, John Haughn, and Dick Whitney

GIRLS' GYM

Square dancing is a rhythmic phase of gym. Claire Milmore, Susan Leonard

Physical education at Weymouth High is an essential part of each student's curriculum. Twice a week the daily routine of classes is broken by a period of gymnastics. Girls work under the direction of Miss Arnold or Miss Cullity.

In the fall, the girls tumble on the mats, execute their skills on balance beam, uneven parallel bars, and the Swedish box, and the trampoline. Also Miss Arnold's classes are given the opportunity to become acquainted with some of the more popular square and round dances.

In warmer weather the walk to Legion Field is far from disagreeable to most girls. There, baseball, soccer, field hockey, and tennis are offerred as group recreations.

The entire program is designed to provide the student with activities which keep her physically fit and healthy, while encouraging interest in various sports.

Students enjoy learning the basics of trampolining. Lorraine Edson

Gym class is a meaningful, yet pleasant, part of a student's curriculum. Kathy Knudsen, Barbara Nault, Barbara Popken, Marilyn MacFawn

BOYS' GYM

The boys' gym classes, directed by instructors Dudley O'Leary, John Burgess, and Ron DiGravio, take place in Weymouth High's well-equipped gym or at Legion Field. Every gym class with Mr. O'Leary begins with ten sets of push-ups and sit-ups. However, the activities vary widely during the year.

In the fall the boys play touch football at Legion Field. Basketball has always been a favorite of the gym classes on Weymouth's fine basketball courts. The most exciting activity is on the trampoline. The boys also become strong wrestlers under the training of Mr. O'Leary and Mr. Burgess.

During the good spring weather the boys' gym classes move to Legion Field for softball and various track activities. Mr. O'Leary trains the boys in the shot put, the high and broad jumps, sprints, pole vaulting, and the "440."

It is imperative to follow directions in gym classes. Mr. Burgess, Dana Laniewski, John Lynch

Instruction by example Bill Sampson, Mr. DiGravio, Ronald Smith

WEIGHTLIFTING

The late Leo Hayes, past coach and physical education instructor at Weymouth, established the practice of weightlifting at Weymouth High. Today the remedial gymnasium in the boys' gym offers excellent facilities for weightlifting to the student and athlete. This part of the gym is equipped with fine weights, mats, and other accessories. Instructor John Burgess directs activities in the remedial gym. Besides his weightlefting work with the daily boys' gym classes, Mr. Burgess also trains the football squad in the remedial gym.

Brian Greener demonstrates his strength and coordination for Ross Glynn

Although weightlifting requires a strong body, any boy can achieve a healthier, fitter body through constant exercise.

ATHLETIC BANQUET

Mr. Jack Fisher, coach of our fine football team, commented on the many benefits of physical fitness.

On the evening of January 20, the Weymouth High School Athletic Council tendered a testimonial banquet to the school's varsity letter athletes. More than one hundred participants from the twelve different sports and the nine senior cheerleaders were honored at this time. The words of head table guests, Superintendent of Schools, Elmer Mapes, Director of Athletics, John Fisher, and the Massachusetts Commissioner of Education, Owen Kiernan, stressed the importance of sports in the curriculum of the well-rounded person. In addition to the presentation by Mr. Whittle of sweaters to the members of the football squad, individual awards for excellence were given to George Andersen, Jon Kuja, and Russ Sandblom.

The cheerleading squad entertained the banquet's guests, after which football awards were presented.

SENIORS

As we progress through our final year at Weymouth High School, we hesitate to break away from the events and friendships, which for the past three years have played such important roles in our lives. We take with us fond memories of our school. Sounds of warm laughter and pleasant conversation will echo in our minds. The excitement of brisk afternoon football games and the festive atmosphere surrounding holiday seasons will spark notes of mirth and sadness in our hearts.

We have matured not just academically. We have learned to work with one another. Meeting people of similar and dissimilar interests has given us a better perspective towards life. Furthermore, we have learned about the great ideals of life and, by participating in the drama of education, have tried new roles which have shaped our distinct characters and personalities.

Graduation symbolizes an end, as well as a beginning. A new world holding rich rewards opens up for us. However, we must never lose sight of our transition period, high school. Therefore, let the friendships we have made, and the activities in which we have participated well serve as unbreakable bonds between us and Weymouth High School.

"Behind the curtain's mystic fold the growing future lies unrolled."

STUDENT ACTIVITIES

If our school be one great stage upon which the student acts and reacts continually, can there not be a scene for every person's interest; a thousand scenes then?

Every actor directs his skill toward the one area he best understands. The role which is most similar to the actor's thoughts and interests becomes for him, not a tedious dialogue, but a fulfilling reward. Thus the students of Weymouth High School choose to participate in the many extra-curricular activities offered them within the school.

The advantages gained from these activities are manifold. The student's character benefits from his new experiences.

Every part the actor plays by augmenting his knowledge of the world around him, effects a greater degree of maturity and self-confidence.

These activities lend a stronger foundation to the student's character. Since they increase the student's physical and intellectual growth, these extra-curricular activities undertaken are the friend and the benefactor of his personality. Through his participation in them, he not only learns; he gains a greater amount of understanding and enlightment.

KEY CLUB

Citizenship through Cooperation

The Key Club is another service organization of Weymouth High. Here, the club's officers, Tom Noble, Frank Tonis, Mark Loughmiller, and Mark Donelan work to bring a meeting to order.

Spurring interest in the school's basketball games is one of the Key Club's jobs. Charles Lynch and Philip Flaherty. Mr. Daly, advisor of the group, keeps them busy throughout the school year.

Sponsored by the Weymouth Kiwanis Club, the Weymouth High School Key Club offers to its members an opportunity to serve the community. Under the direction of Mr. Daly and Mr. Warren, the club strives to prepare its members for adulthood. The club accomplishes this goal by providing experiences in living and working together which enable the boys to develop initiative and leadership traits.

President, Frank Tonis; Vice-President, Mark Donelan; Treasurer, Thomas Noble; and Secretary, Mark Loughmiller; led a membership of forty-three during this year of service. In order to raise money for its many civic functions, the club conducted a dance and several car washes. During the various holiday seasons, the Key Club gives a food basket to a needy family in the town. In June the club awards a scholarship to a worthy senior.

STUDENT COUNCIL

Experience in Democracy

The sophomore governing body at Weymouth High School Annex injects a high calibre esprit de corps into their classmates.

Each Council member is elected to represent his classmates. Mike Joly, Cynthia Snow, Judy O'Donnell, June Sullivan

Important school issues are discussed at Council meetings. Sue Coveny, Leslie Perry, Verna VonIderstein, Nancy Alabiso, Mark Donelan, Brad Cleaves, Andrea Jacobson, Elena Materia, June Sullivan, Andrew Jacobs, Chip Dewar, Judy O'Donnell, Ronald Hunter, Joseph Canova, and Peter Knowles

Meeting is adjourned. Paula AuCoin, Neil Duncliffe, Marjie Shafer, John McClellan, Mike Curran

As the governing body of the entire school, the Student Council affects all students. The thirty-five members of the Council are elected to represent the opinions of Weymouth's student body. The Student Council members, in their efforts to represent their classmates, develop those qualities of leadership so necessary for success later in life. Carrying the greatest weight of responsibility are this year's officers: Michael Joly, president; Michael Curran and Judy O'Donnell, vice-presidents; Cynthia Snow, recording secretary; June Sullivan, corresponding secretary; and Brigita Bergs, treasurer.

Under the guidance of Mr. West, the Student Council has sponsored many successful activities. This year, for the first time in the school's history, the Council in cooperation with the Music Department presented a major musical production Bye, Bye, Birdie. Throughout the year, the Council conducts several dances plus its annual book fair and talent show. The proceeds from all these events allow the Council to award a scholarship to a worthy senior.

In addition to these profitable undertakings, the Council provides cafeteria monitors, buses to away football games, and ushers to various school functions. The efforts of the Student Council have aroused school spirit while enriching and dramatizing the school years of every student.

MATH CLUB

Mathemagicians

Math Club encourages students to examine a problem from all angles. David Bostwick, President; Joanne Palmieri, Vice-President; Richard Bostwick, Secretary; Paul Stonely, Treasurer

The Math Club offers students the benefit of an extension of knowledge beyond the possibilities of class instruction. The purpose of this club is to deepen and broaden the members' interest and understanding in mathematics and to pass on an appreciation of the values and beauties of this science. This is accomplished primarily through problem-solving sessions and student presentations of topics requiring research. The club's activities are numerous, however, and, under the sponsorship of Mr. Swanson, span a wide scope of programming throughout the year. This year, as in past years, the Math Club has sponsored a team of outstanding math students in competition with other schools in the Greater Boston Math League. In the lobby showcases, the club also presented a display of geometric configurations and instruments of measurement.

Solutions are often surprising! Pauline Izdebski, Joanne Palmieri, Michael Oyer, Phil Gutekunst, Richard Whitney, Mr. Swanson

F.H.A.

New Horizons in the Home

The aim of every Future Homemaker of America is to strive "Toward New Horizons." This goal is attained through development of character at home and in community life. Through love and understanding the members try to strengthen their homes. With courage and high hopes the Future Homemakers set out to improve community life. The girls with Mrs. Swain, the advisor, worked hard on a project this year to help make the less fortunate children at Wrentham State Hospital have a joyous Christmas. Other club activities range from guest speakers and discussion groups to holiday parties. This year's officers include Dianne McDonough, Linda Threlfall, Ann Carroll, Kathleen Bacon, Martha Meuse, Elaine Chalet, and Cheryl Raymond.

J.M.S.V.C.

The motto "In Giving We Grow" reveals one of the true basics of the Junior Moral and Spiritual Values Committee: a mature understanding of the humanitarian way of life.

The Humanitarians

Another invaluable service which the J.M.S.V.C. provides to students is their willingness to act as tutor to any student having difficulty with courses. Their tutors give much of their free time so that others succeed better at their academic work.

The Junior Moral and Spiritual Values Committee gives students at Weymouth High School an opportunity to serve their school and community. Members of this volunteer service group, under the direction of Mrs. Magraw, find many areas in which to share their talents with others. Within the school the committee maintains the bulletin boards and conducts an annual orientation program in the junior high schools. In addition, a student to student tutoring program aids pupils who have fallen behind in their class work.

However, Junior Values activities are not limited only to the school. The main body of members is divided into subcommittees specializing in a particular service to the community. Students active in the hospital committee work weekly at local nursing homes and prepare small gifts for handicapped patients in nearby hospitals. In addition, the committee for the blind strives to understand and befriend the blind.

This year the membership has greatly increased. More working members have allowed the group to expand in several ways. For example, an International Goodwill Week was initiated by the committee to strengthen foreign relations at the student level. "In Giving We Grow" expresses the ultimate goal of Junior Values-students acquiring the ability to give of themselves while receiving immeasurable personal benefits.

The high school fairly hummed with activity during International Goodwill Week when Weymouth hosted foreign visitors. Peter Rosenthal and Mabel Ford

Jim Corrigan has learned to feel at ease when speaking before a group; this is one of the assets of participating in this extra-curricular activity.

More tutors at work — Julie Gooch, Nancy Williams, Dotty Dodge, Maureen MacNamara, Cheryl Mansfield, Karen Cook, Donna Stewart, and Karen Ritchie

A.V. CLUB

The new Weymouth High School proudly boasts of its own television studio. Judy Riley and Bill Arvidson, members of the A.V. Club, could perhaps select television broadcasting as their future work.

The A.V. Club willingly helps any teacher in the high school to use the excellent audio-visual equipment which the school possesses. Richard Brunet and Ken Shore

Learning through Seeing and Hearing

The sophomores, under Mr. Cavanaugh, learn how to care for and use valuable audio-visual equipment, valuable to all members of the school because of the dimension it adds to education.

Nearly two hundred Weymouth students have received licenses for their skillful operation of sound projectors, tape recorders, and other audio-visual tools. These members of the Audio Visual Club under the direction of Mr. John Rudolph, supply and assist the faculty with the various pieces of A.V. equipment. The members also run tape recorders and projectors for students completing make-up work.

Operating Weymouth High's closed circuit television station, WHS-TV, offers extensive training for future broadcasters. This year the station is presenting a weekly news program. Each Friday for fifteen minutes a group of juniors or seniors reviews the news and sports of the past week. In addition, several special programs were presented during the year.

CHESS CLUB

Strategists

Stiff competition perfects one's ability to perform under pressure and to meet defeat gracefully. Kenneth Tansey, Joe Benedetti, William Naas

Under the direction of Advisor Mr. Lofgren, President William Nass, Vice-President Kenneth Tansey, and Secretary-Treasurer Edward Henley, the Chess Club conducts a series of round-robin chess matches to determine its most skilled members. Many of these expert tacticians compete in tournaments with teams from other schools in the area. However, the club is not restricted to skilled players. In fact, the club hopes to encourage beginners and help them learn the proper chess techniques.

OUTDOOR CLUB

Nature's Bounty

Members of the newly formed Outdoor Club get together to enjoy the pleasures and benefits of the open air. The club is organized into several committees with John Lorden as the overall chairman. Mr. McKeel, with the aid of Mr. Daly, acts as advisor.

Two camping trips were held in the spring, and braver souls went winter camping in New Hampshire and western Massachusetts for several days. Members also planned an all-day excursion to Mount Monadnock.

The Outdoor Club presents a challenge to outdoor enthusiasts. Mr. McKeel, Robert Johansen, Douglas Franklin, Leonard Robinson, Phil Marston

DEBATE CLUB

Argument with a Purpose

Pre-debate tension is reflected in the faces of Al Lash, Kevin Matthews, Douglas Franklin, Jonathan Forest, Annetta Emery, John Olson, Karen Bergfors, and Miss Crocker.

Debating offers to each person an opportunity to express himself. Donald Berry, Al Lash, and Douglas Tilden

The Debate Club develops both the oratorical and thinking abilities of the forensically gifted students at Weymouth. Success in debating demands spontaneous thinking and clarity of expression, two valuable qualities in any field of work.

All members have an equal status in the club's organization. Each member works under the skillful direction of Miss Crocker and contributes his share to the team.

The reputation of the club has been enhanced by their performance at Dartmouth and in the Columbia Debate Tournament. All members are given the chance to practice their skills by participating in the debate sponsored by the South Shore Debating League. Competent debaters result from students who are willing to perfect their argumentative powers.

Following such an astonishing year of good fortune, the team hopes to inspire the juniors with their spirit of success.

Even in defeat, the debater is rewarded by the knowledge that his opinion has been heard. Karen Bergfors, Douglas Franklin, Kristine Bertram, Jonathan Forest, Annetta Emery, John Olson, Miss Crocker, Kevin Matthews, and Sean Mulready

In order to compete in a tournament, a debater must complete a great deal of preparation. Sue Yetman, Karen Bergfors, Karen Cook, Mary Peshek, Nancy Fulton, Alice Melinis, Pauline Izdebski, Joanne Palmieri, John Olson, Kevin Matthews, and Walter Lofgren

REFLECTOR STAFF

Literary Giants

Encouraging literary pursuits is fundamental to the success of the Reflector. Judith Riley, Editor-in-Chief, and Miss Andem, Advisor

Under the expert guidance of Miss Andem, Judy Riley, editor, and Diane Roberts, assistant editor, work to direct the publication of our school paper, the Reflector. Writing for the Reflector affords students the opportunity to demonstrate their literary talents and creative abilities. Students are urged to submit poems, essays, and stories; these comprise the main body of the magazine. Besides the literary articles, the Reflector includes coverage on sports, outstanding clubs and drama activities, as well as amusing question polls. The art staff, directed by Mr. Chop, is responsible for the excellent photography and drawings which accompany the articles. To finance this school magazine the members of the advertising staff solicit ads from surrounding businesses. Mr. Roberts' skill in business matters is utilized here. Copies of the Reflector are printed by the Vocational High School print shop three times a year and distributed to the students. Columbia University rates the Reflector as a first place category magazine. Weymouth is proud of this excellence.

The creative talents of art are also encouraged in the Reflector. Paula Dugas, David Dowling, Joseph McSheffrey

F.T.A.

Realizing that dedicated, well-educated teachers are continually in demand, the Future Teachers of America Club enables its members to learn as much about their future profession as possible. At each of the monthly meetings, guest speakers are invited to discuss the merits and drawbacks of the various grade levels. Twice during the year, club members are allowed to observe teaching methods of a chosen grade at several local schools. Directed by Miss Pearson, the officers are Elizabeth Gilbert, President; Judith Slattery, Vice-President; Karen Kalaijian, Secretary; Maribeth Mahler, Treasurer; and Kathleen Mortenson, Program Chairman.

Miss Pearson, an excellent teacher herself, generously draws upon her experiences to instruct future teachers. Miss Dorothy Pearson, Betsy Gilbert, and Mary Beth Mahler

WEYMOUTH

BAND AND ORCHESTRA

Music: The Universal Language

Playing musical instruments releases tensions and displays talents. Frank Tonis, Michael Gray, Ted Wheeler

". . .and the band plays on." Larry Young, Edmund Doyle, Dennis Hurley, Stephen Adjms, Ronnie Parkinson, Carye Brayton, Robert Howe

The Weymouth High School Band provides an opportunity for interested students to develop their musical ability. One of the many activities in which the band participated was an exchange concert in March.

The talented musicians of Weymouth High School find an excellent outlet for their abilities in the Band and Orchestra. Members have the opportunity to develop and refine their skills through the challenge of various music forms, thereby gaining a sense of personal achievement and individual satisfaction.

The band, directed by Mr. Warren, offers a wide program of activities throughout the school year. For a smaller group of students, the orchestra, conducted by Mr. Burke, offers a more varied and intimate musical program than could be possible in the band. In the fall the band inspires school spirit at football games. Their half-time shows have been noted for their imaginative and finely-executed maneuvers. Veterans' Day and Memorial Day mark two more red-letter days in the band's schedule. On these occasions the band marches in the town parade. It also participates in several assemblies during the year and finishes its year by playing at graduation exercises.

Every spring a concert is performed by the band and orchestra — a fine program of accomplished music. The audience always has an enjoyable evening. This year the music department has once again sponsored an exchange concert.

The music makers of Weymouth High School practice.

The virtuosos of Weymouth High School perform.

The members of the orchestra concentrate their efforts on pop music.

Mr. "A" knows just how to bring the best of sounds from each student, and the Glee Club members appreciate his ability.

GLEE CLUB

Music swells from several sources at Weymouth High School. A large glee club which meets twice a week offers girls an opportunity to develop their musical reading skills. Boys who enjoy singing and a select number of girls make up the mixed chorus. This group not only performs at assemblies and other school functions, but also represents the school in outside programs. This year for the first time, the school brought music to several churches in the town. Also, a second exchange concert was planned with Glastonbury, Connecticut, for two weekends in the spring. Outstanding members of the mixed chorus display their talent in the various music festivals such as New England, District, and All-State.

At the annex, a similar mixed group has been organized to acquaint sophomores with the activities of the chorus and provide a source of entertainment for the students.

"With a Song in My Heart"

CHORUS

All types of songs are attempted by the Chorus, some light and happy, some sad and deep. Elaine Fiveash, Theresa Giacomozzi, Meryl Meloy, Anna Leuci, Marilyn Tankard, Virginia Dwyer, Timothy DeCourcy, Francis Sheridan, Hugh Delahanty, Philip Iacobacci, and James Gutekunst

The rewards of music as experienced by the chorus need no explanation. Look at those faces!

LIBRARY ASSISTANTS

Indispensable to an efficient library is an efficient staff of assistants. Julie Gooch, Karen Bergfors, Joanne Palmieri, Kathy O'Brien, Marylou Peshek, and Judy Riley

The World at One's Fingertips

With qualified assistance from our librarians, Mrs. Diment and Miss Fay, the student librarians become well familiarized with efficient library procedures. These staff members work during study periods as well as before and after school. Included among their various duties are learning to charge, card, and shelve books; writing overdue notices and checking in magazines are further responsibilities. They are most helpful to their fellow students in finding reference materials and locating specific books. Working in the school library is a valuable experience, especially to students considering a career in this field.

Miss Fay relies on the library assistants for all manner of work. She knows how dependable her assistants are. Barbara Wilson, Sue Coveney, Pat Minahan, and Lorraine Morgan

Mrs. Diment hopes that the knowledge gained by library assistants will make them more successful in later life. Francis Sheppard, John Pye, Nancy Williams, Marilyn Jackson, Mrs. Diment, Alice Melinis, and Sheryl Milligan

SOPHOMORE ACTIVITIES

Where the Action Is

The High School Annex is the background for the initial year of a Weymouth student's secondary education. As part of their background, sophomores are presented with a wide variety of activities which allow them to develop their interests. When they move to the high school, they are better equipped to participate in clubs offering them worthwhile experiences.

Many clubs at the Annex offer an educational stimulus. Linguists may choose to join the French or Spanish Club. Future strategists match their wits at chess. Those interested in audio visual work cooperate with the high school to provide the sophomores with materials and equipment.

Creative sophomores display their talents through the Drama Club and Chorus. The abilities of the Drama Club are well represented in An Evening of One Act Plays as well as in the sophomore talent show. The musical groups at the Annex strive to acquaint the students with music so that they may use any talent they possess to represent our school in later years.

All of the Annex activities show the outstanding current of school spirit developing in our sophomore class. The upper classmen hope they will continue to enjoy the facets of extra-curricular activities and contribute their abilities to the prestige of Weymouth High.

The Spanish Club, an active sophomore group, encourages students to think on an international scale.

The French Club develops exciting and first-hand knowledge of the French people and their language. Mrs. Adams relies on the officers of the French Club for a smooth-running organization.

Spanish Club members work in an informal, but productive manner. Paul Salerno, Mrs. Gluck, and Tom Watson conduct elections.

The French Club often supplements meetings with entertaining and informative guests. All conversations are, of course, in French.

The sophomore class is an eager, responsible group. Drama Club members did an able job in their one-act play and the comedy Mrs. McThing.

Strong motivation and moral fortitude are essential to a nurse. Officers are Carol Darling, Mary Noonan, Marjorie Shafer, and Gail Sandburg. Mrs. Hoyle, adviser, shares her skills and knowledge with members.

F.N.A.

First Rate First Aid

Girls who are interested in medicine find that Weymouth High's Future Nurses' Club acquaints them with the many careers offered in nursing today. Under the able direction of Mrs. Hoyle, the club holds informative monthly meetings in the health office. On occasion the club will listen to a guest speaker discuss some facet of the nursing field.

Carol Darling, Mary Noonan, Marjorie Shafer, and Gail Sandburg lead the club and plan such events as trips to hospitals and nursing schools.

Many of the girls perform volunteer work at local hospitals in an effort to learn even more about their chosen profession. Members of this club are training for one of the most dramatic and rewarding professions.

Knowledge in the art of first aid is required for nursing. Officer Riley, Ruth Brown, Sandra DePari, Challen Stowers, Carol Darling, Anna Leuci

THEATRE ARTS

"All the World Is a Stage"

Some of the students of Weymouth High School exhibit a fondness for the Fine Arts. These students spend many of their waking hours pursuing any and every means of increasing their exposure to the stage and its crafts. Unfortunately, until this year, little in Weymouth High School could help them. Their endeavors seemed empty; their rewards, only minimal.

Now students have seen the realization of their dream — The Theatre Arts Club. Under the advisorship of Mr. McCarthy and Miss Kovak, the club developed rapidly. They sponsored an Evening of One-Act Plays and an evening of folk music, both tremendously successful. So that each man could explore his own center of interest, the club was divided into more specific groups: music, drama, theater techniques, ballet, and films. The group was often visited during the year by a prominent entertainer or more often just ordinary talent.

The Theater Arts Club produced an evening of One-Act-Plays. Jane McClung, Mr. McCarthy, Miss Kovac, Wanda Adams, Cheryl Raymond, Steve Ryder, Marilyn MacFawn, Diane Roberts, Donald Berry

The meetings of the Theater Arts Club are extremely entertaining. When the members of the Theater Arts Club assemble, the results can be hilarious.

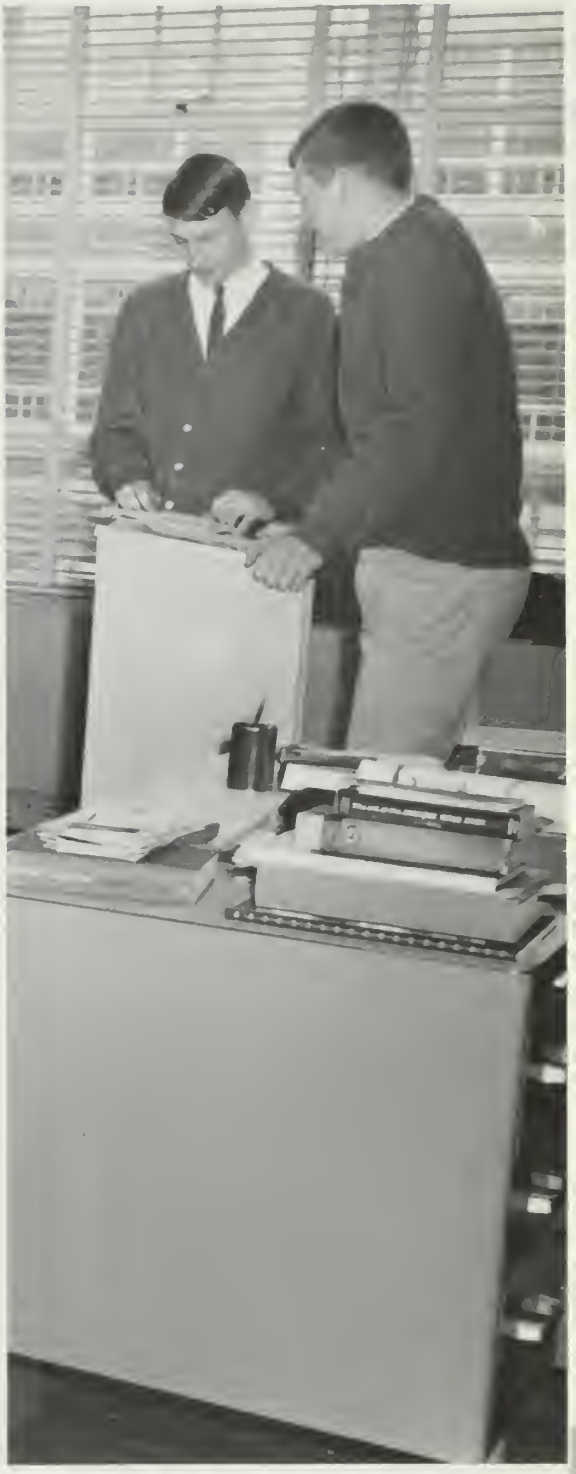
SKI CLUB

Miss Jacobson stands with a "few" members of the Ski Club. You can almost feel the good health their activities produce.

Trail Blazers

A snowy slope is the setting for all the activities of the Ski Club. With the first hint of cold weather and the ensuing snow, eager members begin to wax their skis and shine their poles. Miss Jacobson, the club's advisor, plans with the officers, William Scott, Robert Jutstrom, and Frank Tonis, trips to various ski areas. The club members make weekly trips to the Blue Hills' slopes in Canton. Furthermore, Weymouth skiers have visited and tested the slopes and trails of such ski areas as Crotchet Mountain and Haystack.

For some members, the Ski Club offers the opportunity to learn a new sport. At the club's weekly meetings, guest speakers and films instruct the members in the proper skiing techniques. On the slopes experience members help the novice members develop their skiing skills.



If there's snow somewhere in New England, the Ski Club will find it. Bob Jutstrom and Bill Scott plan the next weekend trip.

F.B.L.A. The Making of an Executive 1966

President Patricia Thomas has been most successful in inspiring enthusiasm in the club members this year.

The Future Business Leaders of America is a club which attempts to better acquaint its members with the business world. Under the direction of Miss MacFarlane and the club officers, President, Patricia Thomas; Vice-Presidents, Joyce Reardon and Pauline Stanley; Secretary, Mary Pettograsso; Treasurer, Maureen McGaughey; and Recorder, Kathleen Nash, the F.B.L.A. conducts monthly meetings and plans tours to various business facilities in the area.

This year they enjoyed an educational visit to the I.B.M. Corporation in Boston. Speakers from corporations such as I.B.M. and schools like Katharine Gibbs Secretarial School highlight the club's meeting. In addition, the club hosted a representative from the Mansfield Beauty Academy through whom they learned of careers in cosmetology. They gained practical and valuable knowledge through the advice of an insurance company representative. Their annual activities include socials at Christmas and in June and the awarding of a typewriter to an outstanding business senior at the end of the year.

Through informal discussion, members become better acquainted with the business world.

DISTRIBUTIVE EDUCATION

Merchandise Managers

The Distributive Education Club of America is a national organization broken down into school and state levels. The club offers to its members at school the opportunity to learn about the field of marketing.

At state conferences the state delegates discuss methods of earning money which will lead them on to compete at the annual national conference in Chicago. Working under Mrs. Doucette's direction the officers are: President, Mary McCulloch; Vice-President, Ann Orlando; Secretary, Jane McCulloch; and Treasurer, Rita Nilsson.

The Distributive Education program prepares students in the field of personal relations and merchandising. Robert Galotti, Terry Jones, Cindy Newton, Dorothy Adams, Jane McCullock, Rita Neilsin, and Cathy Pitts

DRIVER EDUCATION

Highway Safety

Prospective drivers learn in the classroom the good driving habits essential to highway safety.

Mr. O'Byrne and Mr. Whittmore teach Weymouth's students the correct driving procedures. This instruction takes place in school and on the road. In the classroom, students learn the laws of the road along with the fundamentals of the engine. On the road, students put into use the skills acquired in the classroom. Truly, these classes prepare every pupil for taking a place on our highways.

The members of this club strive for good horsemanship at all times. Numerous riding jaunts are taken throughout the year.

RIDING CLUB

In its third active year the Equestrian Club offers to interested members the prospect of many afternoon riding excursions in the Blue Hills. Under the supervision and guidance of Mr. Robert O'Meara, the members learn the principles of good horsemanship and sportsmanship. Each member of the organization rides and cares for a horse at least once every week.

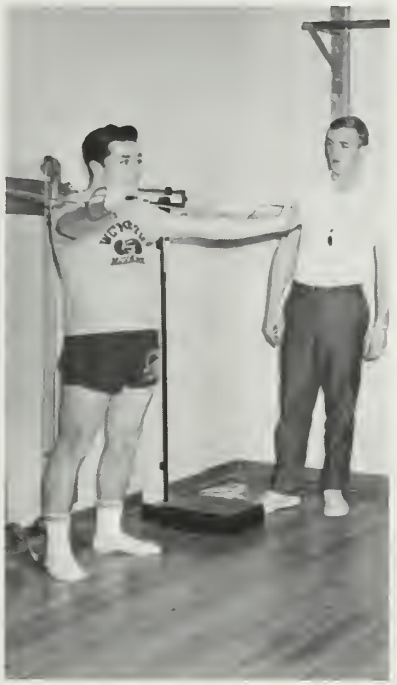
This year the club took on a new dimension by opening membership to boys.

Numerous social events were planned by the members, the chief being a day long ride in the spring.

The membership of this new club is continually increasing, and its future promises to be both profitable and self-satisfying for all members.

"Happy Trails to You"

Active participation in this sport demonstrates each student's enjoyment of riding in the out-of-doors.



Under Brigita's guidance the faculty staff must compose write-ups for the Weymouth High School teachers. Cheryl Mansfield, Brigita Bergs, Sandy DePari

CAMPUS

Our yearbook, the Campus, blends the activities of the three different classes into a single story. This publication has special significence, though, for seniors, since it mirrors the experiences of their final year at Weymouth High School. The pages of the Campus will reflect for years to come the excitement of the athletic events, extracurricular activities, social events, and academic undertakings of the Class of 1966. Only a dedicated and hard-working staff can produce a yearbook of the quality of ours. Truly, the efforts of the Campus Staff have not been in vain. In addition to producing a fine book, the staff has gained much that cannot be measured. They have developed the capacity, not only to get along with others, but to work together as a team; they have learned to lead and to follow; they have accepted the responsibilities of school and community citizenship; and they have become aware of the difference between fact and opinion. Finally, their efforts have increased their self-respect and given them a strong sense of belonging. Many students and teachers will leave Weymouth High School, but the Class of 1966 will always remain at least in spirit in the form of this year's Campus.

HIGHLIGHTS

A lot of effort goes into the production of such a play as "Bye, Bye, Birdie" Jane Ferguson, Brad Cleaves

BYE, BYE, BIRDIE

Long hours of rehearsal are important factors in any successful play. Donald Berry, Jean Bunner

The finished product is the result of group cooperation.

In the fall of 1965 Weymouth High School students performed the musical production Bye, Bye, Birdie. Sponsored by the Student Council and produced and directed by Miss Kovak and Mr. Aliapoulios, this musical was surely one of the most heart-warming and self-satisfying events of the school year. From the character roles to the chorus, and from the pit orchestra to the stage crew, this program probably had the greatest scope of any event ever held at Weymouth High.

The Teacher Memorial Dedication was an inspiring event. Mr. Kelly, Mr. Whittle, Mr. Dwyer, Miss Dorothy Meyer

TEACHER MEMORIAL DEDICATION

Speeches by several distinguished guests were part of the dedication ceremony. Mr. Whittle

In one of the courtyards of the high school stands an obelisk, a memorial to all deceased teachers of Weymouth schools. Mr. William Wyman, the artist who designed the monument, covered it with symbols indicative of many aspects of education. The simple but beautiful ceremony of dedication took place this fall. Mr. Richard Dwyer, president of Weymouth Teacher's Association, led the ceremonies.

A mixed choral group lent an entertaining note to the ceremony.

ONE ACT PLAYS

Sophomores prepare for the acting opportunities that will be given to them in future years. Judy Doble, Kathy Daley, Tom Watson

A great deal of talent and preparation go into the production of a play worthy of capturing the emotions of the audience. Mary Anne Laffey, Steve Ryder

The Theatre Arts Club presented An Evening of One Act Plays on January 14, 1966. Each class had their own play, cast, and directors. The sophomore class presented a scene from The Lesson. The junior class offered the delightful The Wonder Hat. The senior class presented the serious drama Mooncalf Mugford, which represented Weymouth High well in the Massachusetts Regional Drama Festival. After the three excellent performances, the audience selected those individuals whom they felt gave an impressive performance. Those talented actors and actresses selected were Judy Doble, Carl Stone, John Olson, Mary Ann Laffey, and Steven Ryder.

A sincere effort by members of the cast produces a most delightful result.

INTERNATIONAL GOODWILL WEEK

Our international guests participate in our Goodwill Assembly.

Weymouth High's students form a reception line to greet our international guests.

January 17th through the 21st was International Goodwill Week. The various service organizations at Weymouth High School, under the supervision of Mrs. MaGraw and the Jr. Moral and Spiritual Values Committee, sponsored a program to instill in students the truth "Peace through Understanding." Included in the plans for the week was a daily international menu and a display of goodwill posters throughout the school. The highlight of the week occurred on Friday, January 21, the day Weymouth High was the proud host to 22 international guests.

Foreign students enjoy international dish prepared by cafeteria staff.

EXCHANGE CONCERT

Weymouth High School hosted Glastonbury High School of Connecticut for an exchange concert the weekend of March 12. One hundred and fifty of the Glastonbury chorus and band and one hundred and fifty of the Weymouth chorus and band combined to present a varied musical program. Glastonbury High's chorus presented "Choose Something Like a Star" by Thompson and "How Lovely Is Thy Dwelling Place" by Brahms. The band played "Rhapsodic Essay" by Cacavas and "Toccata" by Frescolaldi. Weymouth High's chorus sang "The Last Words of David" by Thompson and "Roll Jordan Roll" arranged by Gillum. The band presented "Prelude and Fugue in G Minor" by Bach and "Casa Grande" by Gass.

The Exchange Concert provides musical as well as personal enrichment.

The experience of sharing new ideas and different backgrounds contributed to the widening of our students' perspectives.

IN MEMORIAM

For thirty-one years Mr. Walter Gutterson served in both the Social Studies and Guidance Departments of Weymouth High. Students will always remember his helping them to plan ahead for a bright and rewarding future.

One of the foremost physical fitness authorities in America was lost with the passing of Leo Hayes last summer. Football line coach, assistant coach of the boys' gymnastic team, head of the weightlifting and body building program, and author of many articles, Mr. Hayes is sorely missed at Weymouth High.

During his forty years at Weymouth, Mr. John Gannon, an example of the dedication in the teaching profession, helped to widen the goals and careers of his students, constantly emphasizing to them the importance of doing well in school and in their future lives.

ACKNOWLEDGMENTS

We, the 1966 Campus Staff owe our success to the willing assistance of countless people. In a large sense, without the aid of interested friends, the production of our fine yearbook would have been impossible. To name all the individuals involved would be impossible. However, due to their special efforts, several deserve to be recognized; the Administration, Faculty, and Staff of Weymouth High School and the Annex, whose cooperation greatly eased our task; the Print Shop of the Vocational Technical High School which prepared the beautiful colored pages in the senior section, a new feature this year; Mr. and Mrs. John Hobbs, our photographers and special friends, whose patience during the year never waned; Mr. Chop, who inspired the artistic aspects of our publication; and especially Mr. Roger J. P. Dow, whose enthusiasm for, cooperation with, and dedication to the Campus Staff has inspired each of us.

We have endeavoured to put drama and imagination into a journey of learning. In the process we have gained a vast and active store of memories and ideals that will prompt a continuing rich and meaningful life. Also, we have been given a growing desire for further enlightenment so that we may examine our lives with a greater sincerity and thus find our place in this competitive world.

Our knowledge enhances our inherent traits and abilities and has helped us to discover the many varied interests that comprise our lives. Many of us have found exciting and gratifying places within the school curriculum and activities and have reached beyond the school to great accomplishments in civic organizations. The future is our domain, and we are prepared for the many tasks it will require of us.

But our education has not been only a period of preparation and idea-taking. It has also pointed us toward personal happiness. The promise is dramatic and assuring. It is coupled with responsibilities and dependent upon moral strength.

We will meet the challenge and reap the rewards. But now the curtain rises to this future. The house lights dim; we step on stage for the most important role of all.
